

SECURITY CASE STUDY

BBC W1, Broadcasting House

Elliott Thomas is providing the security on the prestigious redevelopment of the BBC's most famous building, Broadcasting House, in the heart of London.

The new W1 centre will be a dynamic new home for all the BBC's national radio networks, as well as a focus for the BBC's national and international news operations, bringing the World Service and the domestic news service together in one venue for the first time.

Elliott Thomas is providing on-site manned security 24 hours a day, 365 days a year for the duration of the contract. Nineteen security officers will be patrolling the site during construction hours and three during silent hours.
